

Edu-Therapy™ Solutions Healing Your Heart

Building Sustainable Mental Wellness Through Integrated Treatment and Training

A Cognitive Behavioral Model of Grief Resolution

Edu-Therapy™ in First Nations, Métis and Inuit Communities

Grief and trauma negatively effect our lives. Often coming in waves, they have a cumulative effect that, if not acknowledged and treated, inhibits our ability to integrate in healthy ways and will continue to repeat themselves.

Physical reactions include:

♦ Numbness ♦ Separation ♦ Disengagement ♦ Hyperactivity ♦ Removal

Communities prepared with the Edu-Therapy™ Process are stronger and more resilient. We are all stakeholders of the collective grief and trauma experience. The Edu-Therapy™ Process creates a safe place to acknowledge, accept and integrate pain resolution processes – creating resiliency and long term healing.

Intergenerational Transmission of Historic Trauma

Trauma continues to effect many, due to taking the intellectual approach, 'Somehow, if I can understand how this happened, I will feel better'. These traditional strategies have created more pain resulting in additional loss.

The Edu-Therapy™ Process is designed specifically to deal with emotions related to traumatic loss and the effects of losses that has transcended generations. Our process is used to close these generational gaps - often, two or three generations participate in our program, creating an emotional understanding and empathy for all, thus reducing and often eliminating historic trauma.

Next Steps
